Azizi seizes momentum in District 6 council race

Fund-raising surge demonstrates growing support for candidate

ATLANTA –Atlanta City Council District 6 candidate Bahareh Azizi has emerged as one of the top two candidates in the six-person field, according to the most recent campaign fund-raising disclosures.

For the period ending Sept. 30, Azizi received $29,867 in contributions from supporters the second-highest amount in the race for the third quarter. Only one other candidate has as much cash on hand for the remainder of the campaign as Azizi, who reported $39,175.99 in the bank. Four other candidates trailed substantially in total donations for the third quarter and in cash on hand.

“I am honored and humbled by the support from the citizens of Atlanta for my campaign,” Azizi said. “It is very gratifying to see the momentum shifting in our direction in the final weeks before the election. This report clearly shows we have the resources to win this race and go to work on behalf of the people of Atlanta.”

Azizi is a longtime Midtown resident whose well-rounded background in education, business and community service is bringing a surge of grassroots attention to her as the most dynamic and fresh-thinking candidate on Atlanta’s political scene. She is determined to make a difference by addressing issues such as public safety, high property taxes, transportation, education and inefficiencies in city government.
